Visit Phillip Island!

Phillip Island is an Australian island about 140 km (87 mi) south-southeast of Melbourne, Victoria. It was named after Arthur Phillip, the first governor of New South Wales. 3.5 million visitors choose to spend their vacation here every year.

The island is known for its farms, beautiful coastline and huge biodiversity. There, you can see koalas, exotic birds, unique flowers and even penguins. In addition, there is a wildlife park where kangaroos roam freely amongst the visitors and can be fed by hand.

In recent years, endangered populations of dolphins and whales have started to show recoveries in the area and numbers are starting to grow again. This gives us hope!

The beaches are marvelous too: big, calm and with good waves for surfing. You can also see motorcycle and car racing, as well as a surfing festival.

If you want to experience nature, have a good time and also relax, you should visit Phillip Island!
